

ip-Xchange Announce and Store

What is ip-Xchange Announce & Store?

The ip-Xchange announce and store service allows businesses to utilise UK landline numbers in areas of the UK (including England, Scotland, Wales & N. Ireland) where they don't necessarily have a physical presence. This virtual number plays callers a pre-recorded customised message with the option to leave a voicemail. Voicemail messages will result in a notification alert being sent to a predetermined E-mail address, with an optional copy of the message attached if desired. In addition to the attachment you can also dial into the system and retrieve any new messages.

Features:

- Virtual number from a range of UK locations
- Customised message
- E-mail notification of Voicemail messages
- Notification message details callers number, time & date stamp
- Notification message can include a copy of the Voicemail message
- Remote message retrieval

How does it work?

Any callers dialling the virtual number will be presented to the customised voice greeting, once the caller leaves a voicemail message, the system will E-mail a notification alert with a copy of the message if required.
